

The logo for vc-net, consisting of the text "vc-net" in white lowercase letters on a green square background.

The Collaboration Company

vc-net presents at BrainShare 2008 –
Collaboration leading to greater productivity

London, UK, 19 March 2008 – As Novell hosts BrainShare 2008, Dan Somers, Managing Director of collaboration company vc-net, will share with the 5,500 participants the secrets of this innovative technology which is helping businesses of all sizes and sectors to become more productive than ever before.

Dan Somers explains: "There are many recent factors and trends which are driving the need for collaboration solutions. These include globalisation, mergers and partnerships, along with increasing numbers of home workers and outsourcing."

"Web 2.0 innovations are helping people to become more productive than ever before. At vc-net we're working with Novell to help deliver these innovations through an open approach and providing the powerful core of a unified communications and collaboration solution."

To hear more, visit - <http://www.novell.com/brainshare/>

Ends

About vc-net

vc-net is a market leading collaboration solutions provider. As the first company in the world to build a dedicated international videoconferencing network with POPs throughout Western Europe, Southeast Asia and North America, vc-net is committed to the provision of high quality video solutions and other enterprise collaboration services.

For further information please visit www.vc-net.net

For further information please contact:

Katie King vc-net Press Office Mobile: 07525 727288 Email: katie@2thefore.biz
--